3. Language Assistants should also bear in mind that...

- The relationship between a Language Assistant and the school that they are collaborating with does not imply, in any case, that an employment relationship exists.
- They should get settled into their assigned schools as soon as possible. Interacting with students and the teaching staff will help them to develop rewarding relationships which will benefit everyone involved.
- Once they establish rapport with members of the school community they are likely to come into contact with data that may be of a personal nature. This information is bound by European and Spanish data safety and protection laws. It is the Language Assistants' duty to become familiar with this legislation so as to understand how this data can and cannot be used.
- Personal information must never be exchanged with students. In both face-to-face and virtual environments, they may not invite students to take part in their social media or accept invitations from them to do the same. When taking part in extra-curricular activities, they may not use personal devices to take pictures or videos of students and they will refrain from using their devices during activities when students are not allowed to use them.
- If they receive messages/letters via postal mail, email or social networks, they may not share, forward or publish them, partially or entirely, through instant messaging or on social network pages, or any other web pages, without the owner of the data's consent. Failure to comply could constitute an infringement on data protection laws and a financial penalty could be imposed by the Spanish Data Protection Agency.
- If they are assigned corporate email addresses, they will not redirect them to personal accounts, as this could involve compromising data or putting it at risk.
- Strong passwords should be used, and should never be shared. If unauthorized access has been detected, the password should be immediately changed.
- If digital devices have been provided for temporary use by the school, they will not be used for personal matters nor should personal data be stored on them, unless required for authorized access.
- They will be expected to comply with the duties and responsibilities outlined in the Language Assistant Handbook, School Year 2021-2022: <https://www.educa2.madrid.org/web/bilinguismoycalidad/comunidadbilingue>.
